Kidnapped by aliens

I am sure you have heard of Marion Taylor, haven't you? Marion was the young girl she kidnapped by aliens in 1993. Not only that was he given a ride to a distant planet, but whether she also managed to take some photos of the aliens who they had taken her prisoner, since she had been carrying herself a camera when they captured her. Whenever I hear stories like this I assume so that they have been made them up. It is hard to believe Marion's story, owing to the fact that she was only ten years old at the time. Besides this, it was turned out that she spent most of her time watching science fiction videos. One cannot really believe in that there are really little green aliens who they fly all the way to our planet just so that they can kidnap people. Nevertheless, although Marion became famous and her photos were bought by a newspaper for a great deal of money.

Marriage Guidance Council

Malcolm and Barbara Harris have been married for nearly fifteen years. They've got two children, Gary aged thirteen, and Andrea, who is eleven. During the last couple of years Malcolm and Barbara haven't been very happy- They argue all the time, Barbara's sister advised them to go to the Marriage Guidance Council. There is one in most British towns. It's an organization which allows people to talk with a third person about their problems. This is their third visit, and Mrs. Murray, the counsellor always sees them.

I

Mrs. Murray: Ah, come in Barbara. Take a seat. Is you husband here?
Barbara: Yes, he's waiting outside. He didn't want to come here this week, but... well, I persuaded him to come.
Mrs. M: I see. How have things been?
B.: Oh, much the same. We still seem to have rows all the time.
Mrs.M: What do you quarrel about?
B.: What don't we quarrel about, you mean! Oh, everything. You see, he's so inconsiderate...
Mrs.M: Go on.
B.: Well? I'll give you an example. You know, when the children started school.
I wanted to go back to work again, too. So I got a job. Well, anyway, by the time I've collected Gary and Andrea from school, I only get home about half an hour before Malcolm...
Mrs.M: Yes?
B.: Well, when he gets home, he expects me to run around and get his tea.
ever does anything in the house!
Mrs. M: Mmm.
B.: And last Friday! He invited three of his friends to come round for a drink. He didn't tell me to expect them, and I'd had a long and difficult day. I don't think that's right, do you?
Mrs. M: Barbara, I'm not here to pass judgement. I'm here to listen.
B.: Sorry. And he's so untidy. He's worse than the kids. I always have to remind him to pick up his clothes. He just throws them on the floor. After all, I'm not his servant. I've got my own career. Actually, I think that's part of the trouble, You see,
I earn as much money as he does.

II

Mrs.M: Malcolm! I’m so glad you could come.
M.: Hello, Mrs.M.Well, I’ll be honest. Barbara had to force me to come, really.
Mrs.M: Does it embarrass you to talk about your problems?
M.: Yes, it does. But I suppose we need to talk to somebody.
Mrs.M: Barbara feels that you… well, you resent her job.
M.: I don’t know. I would prefer her to stay at home, but she’s very well qualified… and I encouraged her to go back to work. Now the kids are at school, she needs an interest…and I suppose we need the money.
Mrs.M: How do you share the housework?
M.: I try to help. I always help her to wash up, and I help Gary and Andrea to do their homework while she does the dinner. But she doesn’t think that’s enough. What do you think?
Mrs.M: I’m not here to dive an opinion, Malcolm.
M.: I think we’re both too tired, that’s all. In the evenings we’re both too tired to talk. And Barbara… she never allows me to suggest anything about the house or about the kids. We always have the same arguments. She’s got her own opinions and that’s it. Last night we had another row. She’s forbidden the kids to ride their bikes to school.
Mrs.M: Why?
M.: She thinks they’re too young to ride in the traffic. But I think they should. She always complains about collecting them from school. But you can’t wrap children in cotton- wool, can you?

TEST 10

Appearance and Character

I. Choose the right answer

1. Why is Helen worried?
   a) Her daughter has failed the exams.
   b) Ella is going to marry.
   c) Ella has broken the relationship with John.

2. What does Helen think about the young men?
   a) John doesn’t look his age.
   b) John and Henry are peers.
   c) John looks old for his age.

3. What doesn’t appeal to Helen’s friend?
   a) John’s smile.
   b) Henry’s look.
   c) The young men’s noses.

II. Correct the following sentences

1. It’s Ella who exaggerates things.
2. Helen has known John for years.
3. Helen speaks favourably about John.
4. Ella wants to marry Henry.

III. Finish the sentences as in the dialogue

1. A fair face may…
2. They would make…
3. You’ll never make…
4. You’ll learn to love him…
5. I always feel uncomfortable…
Tapescript

A: Why do you look so worried, Helen?
H: The news of my daughter's engagement has nearly killed me in fact.
A: I thought you liked John.
H: I hardly know him. All that was so unexpected.
A: You'll learn to love him when you know him better, I'm sure he'll prove to be a good husband and an affectionate son. I've known him for years.
H: But he looks so strange. So very tall, with small head flat at the top, too large green eyes, big ears and that long sharp nose of his. Besides he looks old for his age.
A: Oh, you are exaggerating things. True, he's a bit too tall but his big green eyes are clever, intelligent eyes.
H: I wish his face were not so ugly.
A: Why, I like his face: there's something awfully nice about it. He isn't ugly at all, especially when he smiles and shows those perfect teeth of his.
H: I thought Ella would choose Henry. He is serious and decidedly handsome. They would make such a nice couple.
A: You'll never make me agree with you. Henry is good-looking, indeed, but there's something unkind in the look of his grey eyes. I always feel uncomfortable when he looks at me. It's wise of your daughter to have chosen John. Remember: appearances are deceitful, a fair face may hide a foul soul.

TEST 11

House for Sale

(the conversation’s between an estate agent and Robin and Jean Harvey)

I. Choose the right variant

1. The house is for sale because
   a. it is in good repair
   b. the owner is staying at an old people’s home
   c. It hasn’t got a bathroom

2. The estate agent thinks that the house is ideal for a. the couple
   b. himself
   c. a keen do-it-yourself enthusiast

3. Robin and Jean can… themselves.
   a. redecorate the lounge
b. rewire the house
c. put in kitchen units

II. Mark the following statements as True or False

1. The council wants to knock down the house.
2. The estate agent has informed the couple about the state of the house beforehand.
3. The price the owner charges for the house seems attractive.
4. The house is in a quiet district.
5. It's a two-storeyed house.

House for Sale

Estate Agent: I'm afraid it's been rather neglected. The present owner is in his eighties. He's just gone into an old people's home.
Robin: Yes. It looks as though a lot needs doing to it.
E.A.: That's true, but the price is very reasonable. It would be ideal for a do-it-yourself man.
R: Mm. I'm not very good with my hands. I'm afraid. We'd have to get most things done for us, wouldn't we, Jean?
Jean: Oh. I don't know. Could we see inside?
E.A.: Of course. I'll show you the kitchen first.
J: Oh dear! Just look at that sink. It must have been there since the house was built.
R: It's a nice large room, though, and there's plenty of light. We'd have to have kitchen units put in, and we'd need to get it tiled.
J: But you could do the ceiling yourself, couldn't you? And the painting.
R: Is that the only power point there?
E.A: I'm afraid so.
R: It looks pretty old. I'm sure the whole place would need rewiring. We certainly couldn't do that ourselves and we'd need to have more points put in at the same time.
E.A.: Would you like to see the lounge? It's through here.
J: Oh my God! It'd certainly need redecorating. I suppose we could do the painting and wall-papering. What's it like up stairs?
E.A.: Pretty bad, really. It obviously hasn't been decorated for years, and as I told you on the phone, it hasn't got a bathroom. But you could have the small bedroom converted into a bath-room and get a grant towards the cost. All the other houses in the street have had that done.
R: What about the toilet?
E.A.: I'm afraid that's outside, but you could get one put in the new bathroom. And, of course, you'd get a grant for that as well.
J: Is there anything else that needs doing?
E.A.: Well, you'd probably have to get the roof repaired pretty soon.
R: The sooner the better if you ask me. It looks as though water's been coming in over there. And, of course, we'd want to have central heating put in, and the windows double glazed, it's a very noisy street. I couldn't do any of that myself.
E.A.: Of course not.
R: Anyway, thank you for showing us around. But really I think the best thing would be to knock it down and start all over again!

TEST 12

Meals
What’s on the Menu

I. Answer the questions

1. Who are the people making complaints?
   a) a daughter and a father;
   b) a husband and a wife;
   c) two strangers.
2. Who are they making complaint to?

   a) the owner;
   b) the waiter;
   c) the manager.
4. What service charge will be paid?
   a) none at all;
   b) 4 pounds;
   c) 40 pounds.

II. Choose the right variant from the complaints in the dialogue

1. a) soup not hot enough    b) too hot
2. a) steak undercooked     b) overcooked        c) raw
3. a) wrong course         b) wrong dessert
4. a) only one fish course b) only one dessert
5. a) no bill brought      b) overcharged

4. The beans weren’t cooked properly. (What..?)
5. We’d like to speak to the manager. (Who…to)
6. I’m sorry to hear that. (Disjunctive)

Tapescript

What's on the Menu?

A: Waiter!
B: Yes, sir.
A: I’d like to speak to the manager, please ... immediately if possible.
B: I'll see if he's available.
A: It's absolutely incredible. It's the last time I come here, I can tell you.
C: Alright dear. Calm down!
D: Good evening, sir, madam. Is anything wrong?
A: I'm afraid there is. The service here has been terrible. We had to wait forty minutes for the soup and then it was stone cold.
D: I see. Well. I'm sorry to hear that, the trouble is we're a bit short-staffed at present. Um, mainly through illness.
A: Alright, but that's no excuse. My wife asked for chicken and she was brought fish instead. It's just incredible!
C: Yes, and my beans weren't cooked properly, and my husband's steak was completely burnt underneath! It wasn't a very enjoyable meal at all.
D: Hmm. This is most regrettable.
A: Look at this bill. We've been overcharged! We only had one dessert, not two. Can you check the bill again, please?
D: I do apologise, sir.
A: And I'm afraid I'm not going to pay the service charge, as I don't feel satisfied with it.
D: I'll pass on your complaints to the people concerned, and check your bill right away, sir.
A: Thank you.

TEST 13

Family

I am an orphan. My father was one of two brothers, sons of a small farmer in Devonshire. The farm was a poor one, and the elder brother, Andrew, emigrated to Australia, where he did very well indeed, and by means of successful speculation in land became a very rich man. The younger brother, Roger (my father), did not like the agricultural life. He managed to educate himself a little and obtained a post as a clerk with a small firm. My mother was the daughter of a poor artist. My father died when I was six years old. When I was fourteen, my mother followed him to the grave. My only living relation then was my Uncle Andrew, who had recently returned from Australia and bought a small place in his native country. He was very kind to his brother's orphan child, took me to live with him, and treated me in every way as though I was his own daughter.

Although kindness itself to me, my uncle had certain peculiar and deeply-rooted ideas as to the upbringing of women. Himself a man of little or no education, he placed little value on what he called “book knowledge”. He was especially opposed to the education of women. In his opinion, girls should learn practical housework, be useful about the home, and have as little to do with book learning as possible. I rebelled frankly. I knew I possessed a good brain, and had absolutely no talent for domestic duties. My uncle and I had many bitter arguments on the subject. I was lucky enough to win a scholarship. I had a little money of my own left to me by my mother, and I was quite determined to make use of the gifts God had given me. I had one long, final argument with my uncle. He put the facts plainly before me. He had no other relations, and he had intended me to be his sole heiress. If I persisted in these notions of mine, however, I need looking for nothing from him. I remained polite, but firm. I should always be deeply attached to him, I told him, but I must lead my own life. I’ve never regretted my decision.

I. Mark the following statements as True or False

Character

“You must be mad!” was the general comment of family, friends and colleagues. “Giving up a teaching post now, when there isn’t much chance of finding another one! And what about all that lovely money you’re earning; and all those long holidays!”

But I had already come to my decision, after months of suffering. I knew I could no longer continue in the teaching profession. To wake in the morning with a fear of the day ahead had become habitual and I had turned to tranquilizers to help me along.

It had not always been as bad as that. Ten years ago I managed well enough. But I, in common with most other teachers, am enormously self-critical, and I knew now that I was no longer “managing”. My classes were noisy, the children were not learning very much, I had run out of enjoyment and enthusiasm. It was time to stop.

But was it all my failure? In fairness to myself, I don’t think it was. I had plenty of ideas, I loved my subject, and I liked children.

I had been idealistic. But the reality I faced was bored children, overstimulated by video-watching the night before and tired out by a late bedtime. There were children from difficult homes, such as Simon for example, whose parents had separated after many years together and who was not wanted by either. The rudeness I had to put up with, and the bad language appalled me. Sometimes parents could be contacted but frequently they were as bewildered as we ourselves.

A frequent image came before me, as I lay in bed after an early wakening – year 10 due for their English lesson. I come in and attempt to restore order. Jeremy is telling jokes. Donna is laughing, Andrew is standing on a desk and yelling out of the window. At one time my very presence in the doorway would be enough to ensure silence. Now they give a vague “Hello, Miss”, and carry on. I distribute the work sheets and we try to start, but two slow girls are making noises: “Miss, I can’t understand this!” And James is quietly reading his football magazine, Jeremy continues to tell jokes, and Michelle goes on chewing gum.

I have been trying to create the basic conditions in which teaching becomes possible, but I have failed, and I no longer have the stomach for the job. And that is why I’m giving up.

I. Mark the following statements as True or False

a) In the narrator’s opinion one of the reasons why children are unable to cope with classes is that they don’t go to bed at a proper time.
b) The narrator didn’t receive much support from the pupils’ parents.
c) The narrator’s belief is that her failure in teaching is her pupils’ fault.
d) Before the crisis the teacher’s appearance in class was enough to ensure good discipline.
II. Write answers to these questions

a) What are the advantages of a teaching profession from the point of view of the narrator’s family and friends?
b) What does the narrator mean by saying that she was no longer managing?
c) What homes does the narrator call difficult?
d) What subject did the narrator teach?

III. Correct the following statements according to the text

a) Unlike many other teachers the narrator is very self-critical.
b) The narrator usually went to bed with a fear of the day ahead.

TEST 15

Home

Home has been very important to people ever since they started to live in caves and paint pictures on the walls. They have always needed two main things from home. First, and most important, they have needed protection from danger. Secondly, they have wanted comfort as far as possible.

In ancient times, safety was the really important thing. Every little settlement had a wall and every lord lived in a castle. In England castle-building reached its high point 800 years ago. Before that, castle walls had been made of wood, but at this time castles were built or rebuilt with stone.

By three or four centuries ago, however, life had slowly become safer, so self-protection had become less important. When towns outgrew their old walls, the people did not usually build new ones. Instead, merchants and other richer townspeople spent more money on bigger, more comfortable homes. At the same time many castle owners were starting to move out of their cold, uncomfortable towers and into grand and very comfortable houses.

In modern times blocks of “high-rise” flats have been created in big cities. Just after the Second World War these twenty-to-thirty storey buildings were thought to be ideal solution to the problem of house shortage and lack of space in urban areas. At first, the ultra-modern apartments were very popular with city-dwellers, and hundreds of the blocks had been built before anyone began to doubt that they were suitable places for people, children especially, to live in. Scientists say that people who live in such houses may suffer from severe loneliness and deep depression. Some people believe these high-rise blocks make the town look ugly.
At present in London and many other cities they are going to replace high-rise blocks by the so-called “low-rise” blocks, at most six storeys high.

I. Mark the following statements as True or False

a) After townspeople had built new walls around the town they spent more money on bigger and more comfortable houses.
b) Blocks of high-rise flats are no longer popular because they don’t give enough comfort to dwellers.
c) In many English cities they have pulled down high-rise blocks of flats.

II. Write answers to these questions

a) What was the most important thing that people needed from home in ancient times?
b) When did they start to build or rebuild castles with stone in England?
c) What problem did they want to solve by building high-rise blocks of flats in big cities?
d) What may people who live in high-rise blocks of flats suffer from?

III. Correct the following statements according to the text

a) People stopped building new walls around towns two centuries ago.
b) High-rise blocks of flats are especially unsuitable places for elderly people to live in.
c) The so-called “low-rise” blocks are at least six storeys high.

TEST 16

Daily Routine

Every weekday, Dick Derwent is driven out of bed by the alarm clock. He brings his wife Jean a cup of tea, dresses in his office suit, while she makes toast and a sandwich which he packs in his brown briefcase. He leaves the house to walk the half mile to the station to catch the 8.15 suburban train to town.

The routine hasn’t changed in the 25 years since he and Jean first moved to their neat little house in a London suburb. Dick sees the same people on the platform every morning – by now he even nods to one or two. The only difference is that until two years ago he used to buy a paper from the kiosk outside the station and now he picks one up if a fellow passenger discards it on the journey.

Two years ago, Dick was fired. He no longer has a job to go to. He starts an eight hour day of doing nothing. His wife doesn’t know. He couldn’t tell her he’d lost his job, so he simply carried on as though he goes to work. During the day in London he walks by the river, sits in the park or goes into a public library to read the papers. He can’t window shop or watch the people go by without feeling that people are wondering what he’s doing. It’s the contrasts that make Dick’s misery worse; it is having nothing to do when everyone else seems to be busy and intent. He walks past his old workplace every day. If someone he knew comes out and thinks he is just passing away they have a chat. Dick always says he’s doing fine. It doesn’t do to let people know the truth he thinks. It frightens people away from you.

At lunchtime he gets into a bar and sits through opening hours with a half pint of beer, a black hole among the noise and camaraderie. He remembers what it was like. You don’t want some guy in trouble to bring you down when you are having a good time. But after lunch his spirits improve. The worst is over. He finds a park bench, or goes back to the station on a rainy day and takes out his sandwiches.

He got used to spending 9 to 5 deliberately doing nothing. What he misses is the feeling that you belong somewhere. That’s why he goes to the same places.

At 6 p.m. sharp he hurries up home. Home to his wife. He doesn’t want her to know he hasn’t got a job any more.

I. Mark the following statements as True or False

a) After Dick was fired he gave up reading newspapers.
b) During the day in London Dick goes to a public library to look for job vacancies in the newspapers.
c) Dick’s wife doesn’t let her husband know that she suspects he’s out of work.
d) Some time has passed since Dick was fired and he has got used to spending an 8 hour day of doing nothing.

II. Write answers to these questions

a) What contrasts make Dick’s unhappiness worse?
b) Why doesn’t Dick let other people know that he is out of work?
c) Why does Dick go to the same places during his day of doing nothing?
d) Why does Dick hurry up home at 6 sharp?
III. Correct the following statements according to the text

a) Dick’s routine hasn’t changed since he and his wife moved to their house in a London suburb 2 years ago.
b) Dick can’t window shop or watch people go by without feeling that they are sorry for him.

Tapescript

More and more people these days get caught shop-lifting; that is, taking things from shops and not paying for them. It is a big problem these days.
What actually happens if the shop-keeper thinks you have stolen something? The true story of Mrs. С is a good example.

Mrs. С went shopping twice a week. She shopped for her own family and for some old people who could not get to the shops. She always went to the same supermarket. One day she met a friend in there. She had just chosen a piece of cheese from the shelf. The two of them talked and walked round the shop together. Then when her friend went out, Mrs. С went with her. At once the shop-keeper caught her, and told her she had taken a piece of cheese without paying.

Mrs. С was shocked and while she was trying to explain what had happened outside the shop, people stopped to see what was happening. Mrs. С knew many of them and felt very ashamed. It looked as though she was a criminal! She said she would pay for it at once. But the shop-keeper called the police. A police-car came to the shop and she was taken away. When they got her to the police-station, she was questioned for three hours. After this she was charged and was told she would have to go to court.

During the next week, Mrs. С stayed inside her house in a state of shock. She drank black coffee and took pills all the time. After only seven days, she had lost fourteen pounds in weight. The doctor saw her, and told her not to fight in court. «Say you did it, and get it over,» he said. He was afraid that she would have a heart-attack.

In a way the story had a happy ending, because the judge listened to the story, and just told her to go home and forget about it. She was free. But Mrs. С is not the same woman. A whole year after this, she is still afraid to go out. She will not go into shops. She is afraid of what people think about her.

Buying a Cassette Player

A: Yes, sir. Can I help you?
B: Um yes. I bought this radio-cassette player here a couple of weeks ago. Here is the receipt.
A: Ah, ha. That's fine. What seems to be the problem?
B: Well, it's been nothing but trouble really since I bought it.
A: OK. Just let me take a note of this. Er, radio-cassette player.
B: The first thing is one of the speakers doesn't work properly. The sound is completely distorted with the radio or a tape.
A: Which one is it?
B: The right-hand one. Another problem is the left cassette player. It chews up tapes. It's completely ruined two of my favourite cassettes.
A: Oh dear. The speaker and the cassette player.
B: One of the cassettes was brand-new. Oh, and the rewind switch doesn't work. Actually it never did.
A: OK. So the right-hand speaker... the cassette player and... um, the rewind switch. Is that all?
B: No, I'm afraid not. The aerial doesn't work properly. It's stuck.
A: Hmm, I see what you mean. The handle is broken too.
B: Yes, I'd forgotten about that. It's not very good, is it?
A: Er, no. But it's under guarantee and we can repair it. Just give me your name.
B: Jonathan Hall.
A: And phone number.
B: My phone number is 67532 ... work is 78549.
A: 78549. And it's the, um, 11th February.
B: Yes. That's right.
A: OK. Mr. Hall. Here is your copy. We'll give you a ring when it's ready.

Enrolling at a Language School

Receptionist: Good morning, can I help you?
Girl: Good morning. I'm interested in the English lessons.
R: Yes, er well we have two courses ... erm one is for three hours a day for four weeks and then we have another course which is more intensive ... that's six hours a day for two weeks.
G: Oh no, no, no, that's too many hours. I want... erm I want the three hours a day for four weeks.
R: Three hours a day for four weeks. Good, erm ... could I have your name, please?
G: My name is Isabel Martinez.
R: Isabel Martinez. And how old are you?
G: I am twenty two.
R: Twenty two. Could I have your address, please.
G: I'm staying in the Youth Hostel in the High Street.
R: Youth Hostel, yes... right. Would you want some accommodation? Do you want to stay somewhere else other that in the Youth Hostel?
G: Well, that will depend on how expensive it is.
R: Mm, hm. Well, the course and erm ... the accommodation with an English family which includes bed and breakfast and a packed lunch and an evening meal is £600.
G: Oh, that's a lot of money. I don't think I can afford that... (laugh)
R: I'm sorry but it's very competitive with other courses (Erm). Other language schools offer the same sort of (Ahah) courses at the same sort of price.
G: What, what do you offer me for that price ... apart from the bed and breakfast and the...?
R: We have a very good range of facilities, we've obviously very good teachers, well-trained teachers and very modern language-teaching facilities. And we also have TV and video room, erm ... cookery and pottery classes, tennis courts if you like to play sport... er ... a swimming pool ... er an excellent library, so the facilities are very good here.
G: I see, when do the courses start, please?
R: The next course will be starting on Monday, that's this coming Monday which is ... er July the 15th.
G: Right, erm, well yes, I'd like to take the course
R: Good, right. Now you just need to do an entrance test, just so that we can assess your ability, so that we know which class to put you into (Ah). Would you like to do that now?
G: Yes, that would be lovely. Could I also ask you the ... er ... the money. Do I have to pay it all now or can I pay in ... in stages? I ... I don't have £600 on me now.
R: Ah, erm ... you, you'll have to pay a £20 deposit now then (Yes) and pay the rest of the money on Monday morning before the course starts (Ah ha) ... at ten o'clock.
G: Right and ...
R: Can you do that?
G: Yes I can.
R: Good, right, so, erm ... I didn't get down which country you're from. Are you from Spain?
G: Yes that's right, I'm Spanish.
R: I thought so ... yes and what do you do in Spain?
G: I'm a student.
R: Ah, right, good ... well, let's go along to the assessment room then and see how you get on.
G: Thank you.

Tapescript

Wherever you are in Britain, you are never more than 120 kilometres from the sea. So perhaps it is not surprising that the idea of the seaside holiday started here. The fashion began at the end of the eighteenth century and by the 1930s, twenty million more people used Britain's railways during August than in May or October. For a few weeks every year the whole of Britain seemed to be at the seaside. There were enough beds in Blackpool's hotels and guest houses for half a million holidaymakers.

But holiday fashions have changed a lot since the thirties. Today two-thirds of British holidaymakers spend their holidays abroad. Package holidays and charter flights have brought foreign travel within the range of most people's pockets and you will find more Britons in Spain, Greece, Tunisia and the Canary Islands than in Blackpool. Some people, though, still remain faithful to the traditional British seaside holiday: 78-year-old grandmother, Edna Parker has just been to Blackpool for her annual summer holiday ... for the 58th time!

It all began back in 1934 when Edna, just married, spent her honeymoon in Blackpool with her husband, Cyril. They liked it so much that they decided to return the following year. Edna became a mother, a grandmother and sadly, a widow, but she still continued to choose Blackpool for her summer holidays. She always takes her holiday in the first two weeks of June and over the years she has always enjoyed doing the same things. Every year she sits in her deckchair in the same spot on the beach below the famous Blackpool Tower, takes a donkey-ride along the sands and enjoys her favourite seaside lunch of fish, chips and peas.

This year, however, there was something different: the Lord Mayor held a special reception for Edna to celebrate her 58th Blackpool holiday. Will she be coming back for a 59th visit? Edna promised that she would. «I wouldn't go anywhere else — and I'll be back next year. Blackpool has everything I want for a holiday — including the world's best fish and chips. And the town has so many happy memories».

If you put all of Edna's visits together, they add up to an amazing two years in the seaside resort. Until ten years ago she had always stayed in the same guest house. She was disappointed when it closed down, but she did not go very far away. She booked into another guest house in the same road!
Summerhill Boarding School

Summerhill is a boarding school where children do not have to go to lessons and where a five-year-old has as much to say as the head-teacher. It was founded in 1901 by A.S. Neill, whose ideals were that children should be happy and can be responsible for themselves. The school is an international community for children, governed by children, with adult support only as they require it. «Difficult» children can be successful at Summerhill because the problems they may have had at ordinary schools – not wanting to go to lessons, not fitting in, being bullied – are absent. One third of the children come from Japan, where there is an exceptionally disciplined system with heavy pressures to succeed.

A timetable is set after the children choose what they want to do from a list of subjects. The youngest and the eldest go to the most lessons. Those between 10 and 18 go least. Occasionally they will not learn to read and write until their teens.

The community rules are set at weekly general meetings where every adult and child has equal vote. The rules and the punishment for breaking them change constantly. Being noisy at bedtime can lose you a pudding, hitting someone can cost 10 p., and climbing on school roofs can set you back 25 p.

Two girls are sent to the back of all queues for a day for being noisy during the silence hour on Sunday morning. A boy and a girl are told to pay for new batteries for a computer game borrowed from a younger boy.

Joe Redhead was born and educated at Summerhill and her three older children have been, or are being educated there. «Even in the most modern, child-friendly school, children still have to sit still and be indoctrinated», she says. «People can become very self-motivated if you don't force them to do things». She says that because Summerhill allows children to get rid of their repressions they end up as balanced members of the outside world. «Summerhill doesn't produce any angry rebellious souls. It produces rather boring and well-behaved citizens».

I. Mark the following statements as True or False

1. Children from various countries of the world come to Summerhill school.
2. The rules and the punishment for breaking them are set at the beginning of the school year.
3. Children have to pay some money each time they break the rules.
II. Write answers to these questions

1. When do children get adult support at Summerhill school?
2. Why can «difficult» children be successful at Summerhill school?
3. When is a timetable set at Summerhill school?
4. What sort of people does Summerhill produce?

III. Correct the following statements according to the text

1. The boarding school was founded not long ago.
2. The youngest and the eldest pupils go to the least lessons.
3. Occasionally children will not learn to read and write until they are 10.

Ballet Performance

I wake up at nine o'clock most mornings because I usually go to bed quite late. As I get out of bed, all my bones click, reminding me of the familiar ache that follows exercises. Every day I have to go through a certain amount of pain. A ballet dancer's life may seem glamorous but most of it is very hard work. As you develop as a dancer, you stretch your body to the limit, and that means that you have to suffer a little more, too, mentally as well as physically, because you are constantly trying to improve your technique, discovering new things and struggling to master them.

Luckily, I live quite near the Ballet School so I can walk to work. I have to be there at 10.30, including Saturdays, because we perform almost every evening. A lot of my work is simply routine. The morning class lasts for an hour and a quarter. Then we have a quick break for a quarter of an hour before the rehearsal for the performance later in the day. We generally finish about 1.30 and I go home for lunch and a rest.

Ballet dancers have to look after themselves more than actors. I get my shoes ready when I arrive at the theatre and do my own hair and make-up. Then I change into my costume and do a few exercises. It is a ritual, the same every time, but the funny thing is that I always feel nervous before a performance. I'm not worried about worrying. A little stage fright helps to concentrate.

Of course ballet offers a lot of rewards. When things go well, and people come to the dressing-room after work, with bouquets of flowers, I feel happy. I particularly like matinees because children come. It's lovely for them to see you in your make-up. You recognize their excitement in their eyes and at moments like that you forget all the routine and only feel the magic you have tried to convey to them.

After an evening performance, I go out with my friends and have a quiet, late dinner. I don't usually get home before midnight. Then it's not easy to get to sleep. I go over the whole performance in my mind, asking myself: «Was it all right? » And the next day, the same thing begins again.

I. Mark the following statements as True or False
1. People think a ballet dancer's life is glamorous.
2. The narrator starts her daily routine with the rehearsal for the evening performance.
3. The ritual before the performance is the same every time and the narrator doesn't feel nervous any more.

II. Write answers to these questions
1. Why does the narrator wake up only at 9 o'clock?
2. How does the narrator get to work?
3. Why does the narrator like matinees?
4. Why is it difficult for the narrator to fall asleep?

III. Correct the following statements according to the text
1. The narrator works five days a week.
2. After a morning performance the narrator goes out with her friends.
3. The narrator never gets home after midnight.

Holidaymaking in Britain

Many English people now go abroad for their holidays in search of better weather. However, others continue to go to the traditional English seaside resorts. By far the biggest of these resorts is Blackpool, which still welcomes some six million visitors every year.

At the beginning of the 19th century Blackpool was a little-known fishing village on the north-west coast of England with a population of fewer than 500. The arrival of the railways in 1846 linked Blackpool with the industrial towns in the counties of Lancashire and Yorkshire. This gave the inhabitants of these towns the chances to get away from their smoke-filled environment.
and seek fresh air on the coast. The visitors soon began to demand organised entertainment and Blackpool was quick to oblige. Theatres and dance halls were quickly provided for the holidaymakers, but the most striking building was Blackpool Tower, which was erected between 1891 and 1894. The tower was built in imitation of the Eiffel Tower in Paris, even though it is hardly half the height of the French original. Nevertheless, for many years it was Britain's tallest structure.

Along a large part of the seafront is the so-called Golden Mile, an area of hot-dog stands, amusement arcades and fortune tellers. At the southern end of the seafront stands the vast Pleasure Beach, full of exciting rides and more amusement arcades. The Pleasure Beach has more visitors every year than any other tourist attraction in Britain.

One of the principal attractions of Blackpool to many people is the trams which run along the seafront. For many years these were the only commercial trams still operating in Britain. However, in recent years several cities have reintroduced trams on to their streets.

Blackpool has the longest holiday season of any seaside town in Britain. While summer is, no doubt, the busiest time of the year, conferences and exhibitions take place in spring and autumn. From early September until the end of October, crowds come in their thousands to see the Illuminations, when the seafront is transformed into a glittering display of coloured lights and scenes, with trams disguised as moon rockets and American show-boats. Blackpool is not to everyone's taste but it is a nice place where people can come and have fun.

I. Mark the following statements as True or False

1. At present weather is one of the factors that influence the choice of a place for holidays.
2. Blackpool became a popular sea-resort thanks to the development of railways.
3. Blackpool was the first town in Great Britain to introduce trams.
4. Though Blackpool is one of the most exciting sea-resorts in Britain, in the author's opinion not everyone will enjoy the place.

II. Write answers to these questions

1. What did they build in Blackpool to entertain the holidaymakers?
2. Which part of Blackpool attracts more visitors every year than any other place in Great Britain?
3. What, according to the text, is one of the principal attractions of Blackpool to many people?
4. What attraction does Blackpool offer to visitors in September and October?

III. Correct the following statements according to the text
1. Blackpool used to welcome some six million visitors every year.
2. For many years Blackpool Tower was the most striking structure in Britain.

School’s Stereotypes

Illustrations and stories in United States primary school textbooks tend to convince young girls that they should be 'passive' and 'dependent' creatures who need aspire only to lives of service to their future husbands and children, a conference of educators was told here yesterday.

Speaking at the first national conference on schools and sex role stereotypes, a University of California professor said a study of the 100 most widely used elementary textbooks demonstrated that girls are constantly depicted as dependent on boys. The female stereotype presented to elementary school children was so overwhelming that by the time most girls reached fourth grade they believed they had only four occupations open to them — nurse, secretary, teacher, or mother.

Most stories and illustrations tended to center on boys rather than girls, and those boys tended to demonstrate qualities of strength, intelligence, love of adventure, independence and courage. Girls, however, were depicted in passive roles. Usually they were inside a house, and often they were helping with housework or playing with dolls. When boys and girls appeared together in a text, she said, the girls were either watching the boys do something or they were helping the boys.

Adult men appearing in elementary school texts were depicted in various jobs — astronaut, truck driver, policeman, cowboy, scientist, banker — in addition to the role of father. But the overwhelming picture of women in the elementary texts was that of mother and housewife. Not only does she wash, cook, clean, nurse: these chores constitute her only happiness. In contrast, the typical father found in the study was the 'good guy' in the family. He's where the fun is. He builds things with his children and takes them hunting, fishing and up in planes. He solves the problems.
The effect of this on young girls, Professor Weitzman said, is to make them think their role is to serve others. They think they should be attractive so that they can please others and although they generally have better academic records than boys by the time they reach adolescence, they value academic and scholastic excellence less than boys do.

I. Mark the following statements as True or False
1. The conference of educators was told that most of the American girls aspire only to lives of service to their future husband and children.
2. The subject of the conference was professional orientation of girls and boys at American primary schools.
3. The difference in the presentation of adult men and women concerns jobs as well as family life.
4. Girls have better academic records because they value academic and scholastic excellence more than boys.

II. Write answers to these questions
1. What influence on the choice of occupations by American girls does the female stereotype presented to elementary school children make?
2. What qualities do boys tend to demonstrate in most school texts?
3. What are the roles of girls when they appear in school textbooks together with boys?
4. What activities, according to the elementary texts, keep adult women happy?

III. Correct the following statements according to the text
1. Adult men appearing in elementary school texts were depicted in various attractive roles except the role of father.
2. The overwhelming picture of women in the elementary school texts was that of a secretary and a teacher.
